Call for papers

The Romanian Journal of Geography / Revue Roumaine de Géographie is the main scientific journal of the Institute of Geography, Romanian Academy and one of the most important Romanian geographical revue issued under the aegis of the Romanian Academy. Its first issues date back to 1957.

Beginning with volume 53/2009, Romanian Journal of Geography / Revue Roumaine de Géographie will be issued twice a year bringing out quantitative and qualitative research findings on a wide range of subjects related to environmental sciences:

- Geomorphology
- Climate changes
- Land use/land cover changes
- Biodiversity and conservation of natural resources
- Natural and technological hazards
- Regional development
- Urbanization and the development of metropolitan areas

Romanian Journal of Geography / Revue Roumaine de Géographie exchanges publications with over 200 libraries from around the world.

The Editorial Board of the Romanian Journal of Geography / Revue Roumaine de Géographie wishes to announce an open call for papers. We welcome contributions on different topics in accordance with the journal's profile as depicted above.

We expect with interest your scientific materials, research projects, book reviews, analyses of recent phenomenon, projects presentation, and/or finalized research paper.
