

Ion Cioroiu, Colegiul Național "Vasile Alecsandri", Galați

Jews in Wallachia and Transylvania in the 18th-19th centuries

ABSTRACT

The XVIIIth and the XIXth centuries have represented for the Jewish population of the two mentioned provinces a period of demographic growth mainly due to the immigration processes from other regions of Europe. The existing statistical data shows that between the two provinces there were some differences related to the number of Jews, to their geographical distribution, to the existing share in rural or in urban areas etc.